Some Men Are Always Borrowing

Although they sometimes have larger incomes than the men from whom they borrow.
The confirmed borrower is a self-convicted failure reaching old age unreliable and dependent on others, struggling and borrowing for a living.
On the other hand the man who is able to lend spends his money with care. He saves something each day and goes through life happy and contented with money at his disposal to grasp each opportunity. He saves before he spends and thus insures prosperity for himself and his family.

FORESTERS CONVENED AT MOUNT ROYAL

Hon. W. R. Motherwell One of the Speakers

MOVING PICTURES

Function of Forest Is Theme of Speakers

Notwithstanding the fact that it started about forty-five minutes after the scheduled time, the meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association held in the Mount Royal Hotel yesterday afternoon was very interesting, both from the viewpoint of the members of the Association and of the outsiders who availed themselves of the opportunity to attend. Among those who addressed a very attentive and interested audience were Dr. Clifton D. Howe, Dean of the Forestry School, of the University of Toronto, who gave a popular discussion on "Building Population by Building Forests"; Prof. J. W. Toumey, lately Dean of Yale Forest School, who read an interesting paper on "The Value of Research in Forest Production"; and Honourable W. R. Motherwell, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, whose informal talk on "Planting trees in the prairies" was especially well received by the audience. The addresses were augmented by the display of several lantern slides and some new motion pictures of especial interest to those who have made the study of trees and their life their vocation.

In introducing the first speaker, the chairman for the afternoon, Dr. F. D. Adams, Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science of McGill University, said that it was unnecessary to say much about Dr. Howe as his fame as a forester was already well known to the world. In his opening remarks the speaker named Canada as an excellent illustration of the universal rule that a country's forests play an important part in its development. From here he went on to say that the forest had played an important part in the religion of early mankind, the oak, ash and pine being especially prominent in this field. Later, the forest was the reputed home of fairies and sprites, and even today the tree is symbol of victory or peace in some parts. It is the forest too that has more than once appealed to Art and Literature, and has produced results that are now famous. As for its influence in early Canadian history, Dr. Howe referred the audience to the stories of Champlain, LaSalle, Iberville and of the Voyageur. It had been an important factor, too, in giving the Canadian his hardness of character. In its earliest days, lumbering was looked upon merely as a means to an end. Trees were cut merely to give the farmer ground to sow his seeds. Time has, however, changed this and (Continued on Page Four)

PINK DA Y TO BE EDITED BY CO-EDS

Budding Authoresses Urged to Submit Their Work

On Friday, February 2nd, the Pink Issue of the Daily is expected to appear. This is an issue edited by the women editors and for the most part composed of material from women students. It affords an opportunity to the women of McGill to show that they can do their part in this activity of the University, and produce an issue which shall be a success. Original material — poetry and prose — is desired. All contributions should be placed in the Daily box in the Common Room of the R.V.C., clearly marked on the outside "For the 'Pink Issue.'" The use of proper daily paper would be appreciated, and this can be obtained from Miss Lawford and Miss Copping, of M.S.P.E.; and from Miss Hay, Miss Evans, Miss Pennington, and Miss Beckwith, of R.V.C. This notice is for all women students, and is in no way confined to R.V.C. students. No contributions will be used which are not signed, but names will not be published if it is so desired and indicated.

ARTICLE SKETCHES HISTORY OF UNION

The First of a Series of Interesting Articles

The following is the first of a series of articles dealing with the history of the McGill Union. The second will follow at an early date. At the start of the second and final term of the session 1922-23, it is probably not amiss that the students should have a general idea of how things are going around the Union. The Union should be one of the largest sources of revenue for the Students' Council and whether it is or not lies almost entirely in the hands of the students themselves. The executive can do little if they are not backed up wholeheartedly and enthusiastically by the student body as a whole. Very few of the students who enter the building realize its architectural beauties and a short story of its history should be of interest to all. The Union formally opened its doors on February 7th, 1907, when a large number of the prominent members of Montreal society were the guests of the Board of Governors. To Mr. Holten Wood and Mr. A. E. Childs of the New England Graduate Association go the honor of originating the idea of a common meeting place for the students. They each subscribed $5,000 on condition that $65,000 be subscribed by the graduates of the University. The offer was of course accepted. While efforts were being made to raise the money for this undertaking, Sir William Macdonald, who has so often befriended the University, gave the movement great impetus by donating $150,000 to cover the cost of the building and its equipment. This donation was later increased to $200,000. This, in short, is the history of the foundation of the Union which now holds such a large place in the college life of the undergraduates. The actual design of the building was carried out by Messrs. Hutchinson and Wood, ably assisted by Prof. P. E. Nobbs and Sir William Macdonald himself. They are to be congratulated for the Union stands out as one of the prettiest pieces of architecture of its kind in Montreal. The records available are rather vague on the origin of the fittings and furniture but from gleanings here and there it has been learned that all the furniture was specially designed to harmonize with the architectural designs and the fittings and hangings were specially imported from London, England. In the average student, the sense of the artistic is not developed so that he realizes in full the beauties of architecture, but if this article has caused sufficient interest so that the student body will realize its privilege in having as a common meeting place a building such as the McGill Union, its object has been accomplished.

SNOWSHOE TRAMP IS POSTPONED

Will Take Place During Carnival Week

Owing to unfavorable weather conditions it has been deemed prudent to postpone the snowshoe tramp that was to be held to-night. It was thought better by those in charge of the affair to postpone it rather than have the enjoyment of those attending spoiled by inclement weather. It has not yet been decided when the tramp will come off, but in all probability it will take place some time during Carnival Week. The fact is it is to come off at this time, should make it doubly attractive, as those attending will not only get the enjoyment that only a snowshoe tramp can provide, but will also be afforded an ideal opportunity of seeing the carnival from the inside.

A POSTPONEMENT

The debate called to take place tomorrow evening between Arts and Law has been postponed upon representations brought by the Law Undergraduate Society; a full explanation of the circumstances which prompted them to act in this manner appearing in the president's letter contained in today's Correspondence Column. The date has definitely been fixed for Thursday night, February the eighth.

INFORMAL DANCE THIS FRIDAY NIGHT

McGill Dance Orchestra to Supply the Music

Tickets will go on sale today for the first informal dance of the second term which will take place this Friday night, January 26, at the Union. This is the fourth informal of the session and it will far surpass any of the others as the students are just in the mood now to do the "light fantastic toe." With the worry of the exams over, the students should attend this dance in greater numbers than they did any of the others. The music for the evening will be supplied by the McGill Dance Orchestra. This is the first time that the orchestra has played at any of the informals and they'll be a treat to hear. As usual, the catering will be done by the Union Cafeteria and in the way of refreshments nothing but the best will be served by them. The price of the tickets is $2 per couple, and they will be on sale at the porter's desk in the Union at one o'clock today.

WHEREFORE EXAMS.

A large university, now working on the four quarter plan, has changed its theory of examinations, substituting one hour tests at the end of each quarter for the more harrowing semi-annual quizzes. The reason given by the faculty members is that the new system prevents a healthy excitement, and saves time which was said to have been wasted in the old plan. Such a reason seems to be based on a faulty conception of the use of examinations. They are used as tests of knowledge. But they can be used by the student as opportunities to review work.

PULP AND PAPER CONVENTION HERE

Students Invited to All Open Meetings

The Annual Convention of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association is being held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, at the Ritz Carlton Hotel. The programme, which has been arranged, is a most varied and interesting one. Any students who are interested in the industry have been invited to attend any or all of the open meetings. The meetings of the Technical Section on Wednesday and Thursday should be of special interest to the students. If any of the men are desirous of meeting officials of the various companies, who are always in town during the convention, Mr. Edward Beck, of the Pulp and Paper Association, or any of the executive of the McGill Pulp and Paper Club will be pleased to try and arrange any such meetings.

She—"I'll never trust any man in the dark."
He (after a scrap)—"It's a cinch you have nothing to fear in the day time."

Motorist (stopping beside car parked in the shadow)—"Is anyone hurt?"
Parker (interrupted in petting party)—"No, but there will be."

and put it in to some kind of recognizable shape. If the sole object of the student is to use the exam week as a chance to cram and stagger by the re-ceiving board, there is an undue amount of excitement and loss of time. But if examinations are looked upon as incentives for co-ordinating works, they are necessary and there will be no waste of time or unhealthy excitement.—Oberlin Review

A RESPONSE TO SPORTSMANSHIP

The response which has been elicited from the organizations which McGill athletic teams have visited during the past six weeks or so has been most gratifying. Communications which have reached various centres at the University, from the Principal's office to executives of minor clubs, have been most expressive of the sentiments of those to our south who formed contact with visiting aggregations from the college; their number as well as their wording being unequivocal evidence of the manner in which McGill was received and of that in which her representatives behaved. They are at once a compliment to the frank, courteous, out-spoken appreciation of the Americans for sportsmanship and to the success which McGill achieved in equalling that criterion of fair play which was expected of her as a Canadian collegiate institution. McGill may well feel proud of those who have earned the privilege of representing the Red and White in intercollegiate as well as international competition. Win or lose, be the representation always as worthy, the University may have no fear as to the repute in which it will be held by those with whom it has dealings.

The last two years have been notable for the development of international competition between American and Canadian universities. The efficacy of such meetings is unquestioned and it is no exaggerated statement to assert that the representatives of a college will do more, in the short time that they are away, to further the interests of their Alma Mater, and to assure its name being treated with respect, than many years' propaganda in the press or wide distribution of calendars.

EXAMINATIONS. WHY?

At the conclusion of the past "Week of Terror" most students heaved a great sigh of relief and prepared to plunge into a round of social gaiety that would effectually drive all thoughts of the horror of examinations from their minds. After having passed through the nerve-racking crisis of writing three or four finals, the student of average ability is apt to wonder, if sufficient vitality is left him to think at all, if the examination system at present in force is the best method known for determining the knowledge of the student. True, one thing that seems to speak in its favour is that it has held sway since time immemorial. That, to conservative minds, warrants its continuance. Others sometimes wonder if a system a little less vicious in its effects could not be evolved.

However, we do not wish to condemn the examination system entirely. There are phases of it that are commendable. For instance, review for an examination gives the student a grasp of the subject as a whole that he would not otherwise get. Another good point is that concentrated study is a wonderful mental stimulant, but the extremes to which it is carried during exam time rather destroys this aspect of the question. A negative reason for its existence is that no psychologist has yet devised a method of testing the knowledge of the student that can supersede the examination system. Psychological tests are all the rage nowadays but they (apparently) test one's mental capacity, not the range or extent of knowledge acquired. Theoretically, examinations are supposed to mark the culmination of a systematic course of study. Actually, the scholar spends the last week or so in frantically cramming facts and ideas that he was supposed to have absorbed slowly as he went along. The result is, that the examination once over, away flies knowledge to the winds and the carefree student is as blissfully ignorant as ever.

The nervous and mental strain is also a factor, and no inconsiderable one at that, which condemns the examination system. Robert Louis Stevenson once wrote a pathetic story about a scholar who plugged all night for an exam, and who was found in the early hours of the next morning, a hopeless, wit-wandering idiot. Even at McGill we have had instances of the cruel physical effects of examinations. Broadly speaking, however, this is a minor reason for censuring modern examination methods.

Frankly we have no definite, detailed suggestions to offer as to what should be done. Examinations do not seem to be a fair test of what one has learned, and they undoubtedly lead to methods of study that do not result in the acquirement of much real knowledge.

The problem is one that must be left for the psychologists to solve. Certain it is that any system evolved will not meet with approval if, by laying down a set of elementary rules, it curtails the liberty of the student to do as he pleases. The delicate problem facing the psychologists is to preserve the liberty of the student and yet at the same time lead him to work in a systematic manner that will result in a college graduate who has a mind trained for hard work.

EDITORIAL NOTE

The appearance in today's issue of the programme formed through the agency of the Schedule Committee is evidence of the efficacy of the working of such a body and furnishes conclusive proof that its existence is filling a long-felt want at the college. It has been obvious that some sort of control is essential if the various organizations about the Campus are to function to the best advantage. We believe that the Schedule Committee will supply that requisite supervision; all that is necessary to its entire success is the complete co-operation of the Student Body.

OTHER CAMPUSES

CO-ED'S REVENGE
The golden opportunity is still open to any co-ed on the campus who wants to settle a score with any man who has been unfortunate enough to incur her displeasure. In other words, she still has time to hand in to the co-ed Orange Owl any crack she wishes to make at the expense of mere man. The co-ed issue will appear shortly.

STOP THIEF
Sinister doings of crooks under cover of night and man-hunting by sharp-featured sleuths, punctuated by hilarious comic situations, marks the progress of action in "Stop Thief." Carlyle Moore's three act farce comedy to be given the night before prof. at the University of Wisconsin.

TEAM-MATES PRAISE MULLER
"Brick" Muller, California's All-American end, placed his University and his state in the spotlight of the sport world by his spectacular playing and his splendid sportsmanship in the All-American football game played at Columbus, Ohio, last Saturday, in which he blocked a kick, scooped up the ball and ran 65 yards for the only score in the game.

STUDENTS ARE FRIVOLOUS
Iowa State—"Frivolity, rather than the more serious problems of every-day life, has been taking up too much time of the modern American college student," declared Fred Hansen, secretary of the college Y.M.C.A. in his farewell address to the members of the West Gate Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

ABOLITION OF CHAPEL
The abolition of chapel, the abolition of Thanksgiving recess and the changing of the opening of the academic day from 8 to 8.30 will be voted upon at the straw balloting conducted by The Dartmouth.

STUDENTS ARE DROPPED
One hundred and seven students, including upper classmen, have been dropped from Chicago University at the end of the autumn term. This number is considerably more than for the same period last year. In dropping students from the University whether the students' poor scholarship is the result of incompetence, neglect of studies or inadequacy of previous training.

day, Jan. 24th, at one o'clock, in the Common Room.
As plans for the Intercollegiate matches must be completed, all members are urged to be present.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.
Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

The Editor,
McGill Daily:
Dear Sir,—I would like to point out the justification for the further postponement until Feb. 8th of the Arts-Law Debate, as will be announced to-morrow morning in your paper.
Through a misunderstanding, the executive of the Lit. were allowed to suppose that all the debaters had been consulted, and had expressed their ability to take part in the debate on Wednesday, Jan. 24th. As a matter of fact, certain of the contestants for the Faculty of Law had not been approached, and when they were finally made acquainted with the prospect of the debate for the 24th, it was found that they could not participate that evening, because of imperative previous engagements.

As it was both highly inadvisable and almost impossible to induce others to the Law Faculty would not be adequately represented by a hasty choice, the Lit. were apprised of the fact that either a postponement of the debate or the withdrawal of the Law' team was the choice.

I would like to thank the Lit. for the postponement that they have arranged, and take this means of anticipating any adverse criticism that may be directed against the Lit. Executive by showing that it is not justified.

Truly yours,
WM. F. MACKLAIR,
Pres. Law Undergrad.

CO-EDS MISS BEAUTY PARLOR.

Upon returning to their Alma Mater for the second semester the co-eds of the University of California learned, much to their sorrow, that the beauty shop advertised to open in Stephens Hall is still missing, and if they wish to keep their rosy complexions and beautifully marcelled hair they will have to stroll the unheard of distance of six or seven hundred yards to the nearest shop of this kind.

'Twas MIDNIGHT.
'Twas midnight in the parlor,
'Twas darkness everywhere;
The silence was unbroken,
'Cause there was no one there.

BASKETBALL SQUAD SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Team Will Line Up Against Alerts Wednesday

TORONTO SATURDAY

Turpel Shows Good Form at Practice—Manson Steady

The basketball practice in the High School gymnasium last night showed the team in a better form than they have appeared since their return from the States. Despite the fact that the Intermediate A squad was unable to place a full team on the floor, the Red and White seniors were out in force, and filled the vacancies in the lighter team in the practice game that was played.

The first half of this game was in favor of the Intermediate team, who, strengthened by Turpel and Blumenstein, were able to keep the Seniors busy all the time. Philpotts, who played for the Intermediates, is rapidly developing in form, and in a few more weeks should be a strong contender for a berth of the Seniors. Scarfe, of the Intermediate, was working well, and despite his lack of weight, was able to get through and score now and again.

The second period opened with Turpel with the Seniors and Amaron in centre. This period saw the Seniors set the pace and completely sweep the smaller team off the floor. Manson went into centre and Amaron back to defence shortly after the start of the game. This strengthened the Red and White a lot, as the big centre assisted in almost every score, for although he did not shoot often he was able to pass the ball to the forwards, who scored from under the basket.

The team showed remarkable improvement in scoring. Turpel shot at the basket from the play nine times in this period, making the shot count six times. Hilton was able to come up the floor but three times, and was able to score on two of these occasions. Manson averaged fifty per cent, placing half his shots through the ring. Crain scored twice, but was the mainstay of the defence, and it was no doubt due to his clever handling of the ball and breaking up the opposition plays that the Intermediates scored but three baskets. Scarfe who shot free tries for the Intermediate team, was able to get six out of eight, and scored one of the three baskets against the Seniors.

The game on Wednesday is at Molson Hall, against the Alerts. The Intermediate team will also stage a game either before or after the Seniors perform.

One of the most interesting events that is to occur will be held in the near future when Intermediate A. and B. meet in a practice game. The B team is under the impression that they can handle the A squad with little trouble, while the A team is quite confident of class. The game should be a hot one.

The moving of the baskets at the High School is to be done this week. The new plan of moving them out three feet allows two feet to play around the basket, and another foot for outside play. This will make the court standard, and also make the play when around the basket more intense.

GYMNASTS ARE PRACTISING HARD

Men Are Rapidly Rounding Into Shape

With little noise and little publicity, the gym. team have been hard at work for the past six weeks rapidly rounding into shape for the fixture in this event that is to be held in Toronto next March. The men are on the floor for two hours every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and under the coaching of Mr. Inday are rapidly rounding into shape. Delahay, the star of the delegation, is in form, and working remarkably well. The other men out who are showing up well are Roloston, Consiglio, McKay, McLechie, Bourne, Baxter, Ross and Hansard. All of these men are out regularly, and in all probability, from their ranks the team that will go to Toronto will be selected, although there is still an opportunity for new men to join the squad. The Wicksteed Competition, which is held also in March is developing many contenders for the first two medals, but there is as yet but one post-medal, and this candidate from Macdonald College.

The work of the rest of the year is already mapped out by Coach Findlay, and there is still plenty of time for new men to get into shape. The work of developing the finishing touches for the intercollegiate competition is well under way, however, among the candidates who are out, so that the Red and White will be well represented.

The following sign was displayed in the window of a small steam laundry in a small town not so very far from this town:
"Don't Kill Your Wife—Let Us Do Your Dirty Work."

R.V.C. LOSE TO M.S.P.E. IN HOCKEY

Miss Gardner and Miss Kerr Starred

WELL CONTESTED

Rink in the Hollow Is Scene of Good Game.

Last night the M.S.P.E. sextette defeated the R.V.C. representatives in a keenly contested match at the Rink in the Hollow, the score being 6-3. The game was featured throughout by individual rushes, but there was not much team work.

Miss E. Snyder opened the scoring for the M.S.P.E. within the first few minutes of play. This was almost immediately followed by two goals for the College from the sticks of Miss C. Robertson and Miss M. Fry. Score 2-1.

By the end of the second period, after an exciting ten minutes, Miss F. Gardner and Miss H. Roberts had brought the score to 3-2 for the Physical Eds. Neither team slackened at all in the final period, Miss Powell, Miss Snyder, and Miss Flanagan scoring for the winning side, while Miss C. Robertson made the last point for the college players.

Miss Gardner starred for the M. S. P. E., her skating and stick-handling being far superior to any player on the ice. The veteran goal-keeper for the losing side—Miss Lorna Kerr—played her usual excellent game, in spite of the score against her team.

The line-ups were:

JUNIORS BEATEN BY ARTS SENIORS

Exhibition Game Ends in 5 to 3 Victory for '23

The fast-travelling Arts Senior sextette added another wreath to their laurels yesterday, when they handed the Juniors of their own faculty the short end of a 5-3 score on the Campus Rink, in an exhibition game. It was by no means a brilliant display of hockey, and combination play was lacking on both sides. The Seniors took an early lead and were never threatened at any stage of the struggle.

The game opened with the Seniors on the offensive. After a few minutes of play the first goal was scored for the Arts '23 men by Craik. The Juniors tried hard to even up the score, but could not get going properly, due, no doubt to the superiority of their opponents. The second goal for the Seniors was scored by Johnson. The first goal for the Juniors was notched by Leyhew after a half dozen previous attempts of his to score. McLean soon afterwards skated through the Arts '24 team and scored another for his side. Neither goaler was given much work at this stage, because the players would be blocked or else lose the puck before they shot. Johnson worked his way through the Juniors, but only to be blocked when about to shoot. Fortunately Craik was there to receive the puck, and he notched another one. The last goal for the Seniors was scored by Johnson. Blumenstein scored for the Juniors on a pass from Leyhew. The Juniors were working hard in their attempt to even up the score. The prettiest play of the game was when Cope drew Amaron out of the goals and Leyhew was there to shoot the puck into the open net. The game ended with the score 5-3 for Arts '23. Puddicombe refereed the game.

The line-ups were:—

BASKETBALL GAME WON BY TORONTO

Home Team Victor by Score of 39 to 14

The University of Toronto opened their season in basketball by a clean-cut victory over the Queen's quintet. Despite the rumour that the tri-coloured team was the most powerful in generations, it is apparent from the score that the home team had little difficulty in suppressing the invaders. It is wise, however, to remember that although the Red and White team carried off the honours in the intercollegiate series last year, they, too, opened the season in Toronto with a disastrous defeat. The Varsity team was without doubt strongest by far on its own floor, so that this may in some measure account for the overwhelming victory. The final score gave Toronto 39, while Queens had but 15.

The form displayed by the winners was such that their supporters are confident that the Blue and White will win the Intercollegiate championship this season, although McGill has not yet played, and a correct indication of the strength of the Montreal team can hardly be gained as yet.

The Varsity five looked much better this season than they did last year, having profited by playing one season together, and, in addition the holiday tour through the Eastern States has improved their play considerably in certain departments. They jumped into a quick dead on Saturday night in Hart House, and after the first five minutes the result was not in doubt. Queen's, while fairly strong individually did not work well together, and there was a lack of finish to their plays. The Tricolor team included two members of the Canadian Rugby championship team—Lewis, the snap, who played on the defence, and Bud Thomas who was a sub. McLean, Duffill and Graham were the best for the winners, while Lewis was the best for the Queen's. The teams:

THINGS TO WORRY OVER BY PSYCHE

In answer to the cynic who insisted that the Community Players did not bring down the house on Saturday, it may be said that they nevertheless succeeded, in the final act, in bringing down a goodly part of the scenery.

A number of the embryonic stage artists who performed last week have expressed a decided opinion against the prohibition of "side line coaching" at amateur theatricals.

What prompted them to this statement is quite obvious.

It is rumored that a prominent local sportsman is arranging to bring the House of David baseball team to Montreal, as a means of promoting interest in the game of "Beaver."

The report that the hockey players of the Intercollegiate League are forming a Union to oppose overtime work is unfounded.

It has recently been announced that "Friday will see next informal." It is, however, not expected that Robinson Crusoe will be on hand to witness this social event.

A cable from Koenigshurg informs us that "Poland trying to extend sea-board." It is remarkable what a stimulus modern science has given to the conquest of nature.

The college authorities of the University of Southern California have issued an order prohibiting the co-eds from wearing flowers at college. There is no report of the male students having made serious protests against this edict.

It is not yet announced when Dean Laing will make his first speech before the newly organized Alumnae Club of McGill, the Christmas Graduates Society. But it will in all probability be at the grand initiation rally which takes place after a very important announcement within the next ten days.

DENTS LOSE TO COM.' 24S QDVU

Businessmen Win Victory by Score of 3 to 1

Commerce '24 won from the combined team of Dent. '23 and '24 by the score of 3-1 in a fast and furious game, on the Campus Rink last night. The game started with a rush, and in the first few moments of play both teams appeared to be very evenly matched. Neither squad was able to do much puck-carrying against the hard and sure checking. However, after four minutes of ragged play the puck came out from a scrimmage behind the Dents goal and Annable bulged the strings for Commerce's first score. Play continued throughout this period with the puck moving from one end of the ice to the other, and the half closed without further scores.

One minute after play started in the last period, Annable again fooled the Dent's net minder on a long shot from outside the defence. At this stage the Commerce supporters became noisy and confident. However, the second goal seemed to act as a tonic on the Dents, and the period took on a whirlwind aspect, the Dents keeping the disc in the Commerce's danger-zone continually. Only the cool, steady playing of the Commerce goal keeper at this time saved the situation. With four and a half minutes to go, Cassidy banged the puck into the back of the net for Dents. Only score. This aroused the spirits of the Commerce performers, and with only half a minute to go Annable clinched the game for the budding business men by slipping the rubber in Dents' net for the third and last score.

The Commerce team were ably supported by their rooters, who manifested the usual Commerce spirit, and made their presence known at all times by their loud and enthusiastic cheers. If the team had not been supported as it was by this faithful band the result of the game might have been different, when one considers the fierce rally staged by Dents in the second period.

The line-up was as follows:—
Commerce '24. Dent. '23 & '24.

STUDENT SERVICE AT REFORM TEMPLE

Conference Bears Fruit in Jewish-Gentile Service

A special student service, to which students of all creeds and religions are invited, will be held at Temple Emanuel, El, Friday evening, January 26th, at 8.15 p.m. Temple Emanuel is the Reform Jewish house of worship at 4123 Sherbrooke Street West. It is hoped that there will be present at the service a large number of non-Jewish as well as Jewish students.

This service comes as one of the results of the General Conference of Canadian Students, held at Toronto, under the auspices of the S.C.A. last month. On that occasion the delegates from the various universities faced the main problems confronting Canadian life, and considered what part students could best play in helping to solve them. There developed at the Conference an excellent spirit of mutual understanding between the spokesmen of the races and religions represented. A particularly significant note was struck in the expressed willingness on the part of Jewish and non-Jewish students to co-operate for all purposes affecting the common life. The service at Temple Emanuel on Friday evening is being held in order to further and strengthen this spirit.

In place of the regular sermon, there will be short addresses by Mr. H. C. R. Arvon, President of the McGill S.C.A., and Mr. Otto Klineberg, President of the Maccabean Circle. These addresses will be in the nature of reports of the Toronto Conference, and of the effects which the Conference should have in strengthening and developing the spirit of co-operation and mutual understanding.

A very cordial invitation is extended to all students, Jewish and non-Jewish, to attend the service.

at present lumbering ranks among the foremost industries of the Dominion. Aside from its function in giving the early settler his farm, the lumbering operations gave the settler a cheap means of building his log cabin.

The lumbering industry is at present in a somewhat precarious position, due to the fact that in the early days of the industry much reckless cutting was done. The depopulation of many towns in Eastern Canada was due to the fact that lumbering operations had ceased in the districts in question. Some of these towns had even ceased to exist while others were only saved through the establishment of railway shops.

The trouble is that even at the present day some people regard the forest as a place to be cut, not to be cultivated and treated as a reproductive piece of land.

The last few years have been looked upon as the age of electricity and steam, but the title "Age of Wood" undoubtedly belongs to the present decade. There is no business that needs no wood, and contrary to a general misconception man is becoming more and more dependent on it. At present lumbering ranks second only to agriculture in the Dominion.

Research work done lately by experienced scientists have proven that local rainfall, humidity, and the condition of local streams and wells are influenced materially by forests. Wells have been known to run dry due to the deforestation of surrounding country.

The burning up of forests due to forest fires not only destroys millions of dollars worth of timber land but also destroys the playground of the sportsman. The only thing that can save the forests is an adequate forest programme, a complete system of forest fire fighters.

Another point is that forestry should concern itself with forests and not lands that are barren. The cost of supervising forestry would possibly raise the price of lumber, but in the end the citizen will benefit, for the sky-high prices that would otherwise result would be prevented.

It is Canada's duty to look for outside trade in lumbering, the natural resources of the Dominion in this line make her deserving of a premier position in the world's timber market. Climatic conditions and an excellent transportation system lend themselves especially to this.

At present, eastern United States is practically dependent upon Canada for her wood supply, and as matters are at present it will not be long before the whole United States will be dependent upon the Dominion for her lumber. Today one hundred and forty million dollars' worth of business is done with the country to the south. Last year Canada sold the U.S. three million cords of pulpwood and that country obtained 44 per cent of its pulpwood from Canada. If the resulting paper had been made in Canada instead of outside the Dominion would have made six times as much profit as she did.

At this juncture an interesting picture showing the disastrous results of a hunter's carelessness was thrown on the screen.

The next speaker was Prof. Toumay, who for ten years was dean of the Department of Forestry at Yale University. Prof. Toumay defined research in forestry as the science which makes two trees grow in the place of one with less effort. An important basis of the forestry industry is the soil, and for this reason should be the subject of a good deal of research work.

An outstanding feature in forestry at present is the lack of experienced research workers. Such research as is being done at present is done entirely around utilization of the products rather than around production. Research stations should be established in the heart of the lumbering districts.

A research man in forestry must have a thorough knowledge of physics, chemistry, biology, zoology and geology. Research work cannot be done singly but can only be done by team work. Splendid work has already been done in this direction in Switzerland, Austria, Germany and India. Sylviculture is the weakest link in America today.

Research in timber should be carried on both by governments and universities, more particularly by the universities, as these are more suited for this type of work.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell discussed the planting of trees in the prairies under six headings.

The first thing necessary was the desire to plant, though it is inadvisable to start in work when the fever is at its height. The reason for the lack of trees on the prairies is the hardness of the ground. The obstacle can however be overcome by deep ploughing. There are three trees that thrive well anywhere on the prairie, the elm, the spruce and the Canugana, a species of Siberian shrub.

As for the size of tree to be planted the Minister of Agriculture advised the planting of seedlings of from six to eighteen inches in height.

The tree-belt should not be built too closely around the house. It should be two or three hundred feet back if possible.

There should be two rows of trees and these should be about twelve feet apart so that the space between may be easily cleaned.

The acid test of a good grove of trees is the way it is cared for after it is full grown. There are many obstacles to looking after trees, but it is essential that care be given as otherwise the trees will surely fall into decay. The importance of a tree belt cannot be over-estimated; the trees serve as shelter in storm time and beautify the home as well.

Mr. Motherwell concluded his address with a few lantern slides of his own home in the west.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speakers by the chairman.

STUDY GROUPS TO BE FORMED SHORTLY

The McGill delegation from the recent National Conference of Canadian Students at Toronto have planned a number of discussion groups under the guidance of recognized and capable leaders to continue the study of some of the matters dealt with at the Conference. The following groups have now been arranged:

- 1.—Comparative Religions, led by Otto Klineberg.
- 2.—Industrial Problems, led by Prof. E. M. Best.
- 3.—Science and Religion, led by Prof. Ira MacKay.
- 4.—Nationalism and Internationalism, led by Prof. R. de Roure.

While this movement has been initiated by those privileged to attend the Toronto gathering, it is being urged by others who realize the immediate importance of a more intelligent grasp of some of the problems that have been the occasion of discord and strife in community and national life. These or professor, who desires to attend. It groups will be open to anyone, student is expected that meetings will occur about once a week, at times to be arranged by agreement of the members.

All who are interested and especially those who desire to join one of the groups should, if possible, be present at the general meeting to be held at Strathcona Hall on Thursday of this week. This meeting will bring together a large number of students of both sexes, professors, and members of other organizations outside the University for an evening of free discussion on some of the issues arising from the Conference. Announcements will be made regarding the above mentioned groups before the gathering disperses, and time will be given for some final arrangements.

The meeting on Thursday will be of no sectarian order. It will be composed of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish elements. The University of Montreal, which was not represented at Toronto owing to hindering circumstances, will have at least ten students at the Hall on Thursday night.

One notable achievement of the National Conference was to give to over six hundred men and women an understanding of one another, and an appreciation of races and creeds different from their own, such as they never had before. Another result of that remarkable gathering was to send back into Canadian colleges from coast to coast bodies of students convinced that the better order that is to be can never be built upon the narrow basis of traditional misunderstanding and prejudice, racial, social or religious. Understanding and tolerance are primary requisites to any constructive effort that may be put forward with any hope of success.

THE IMPERIAL

Though none of the six acts at the Imperial this week are outstanding, nevertheless all of them are standard offerings, with plenty of laughs scattered throughout.

Bob Albright in an amiable way, took the audience into his confidence and interspersed his songs with jokes that sailed across the footlights and were easily caught by his friendly audience.

Horen and Aylorff get a great many laughs out of the "mal-de-mer" of the "he" half of the team. Their clever skit and song "Fish" was extremely well taken and added not a little to the success of their amusing act.

Pinto and Boyle, and a third unnamed individual inject a little novelty into their turn, which consists of several catchy tunes well rendered, and touches of burlesque.

An entertaining little sketch is that of Saxton and Farrell, in which a loving lady and a "bootlegged" man almost come to grief. Berk and Saun interpret Chinese, Russian and jazz dances easily, and sing nearly as well.

Two pleasing girls opened the show with a fast and really interesting acrobatic turn, termed the Aeroplane Girls. "Shirley of the Circus," with Shirley Mason, is an adequate hotopplay with a very strong climax and a circus background. "News" and several shorter films round off a well rounded programme.

JAZZ

The men tweet-tweet! like swallows on a wire,
Arrayed in black and white.
They crane to see
The lacquered faces and upholstery
That mark the women objects of desire,
Vertiginous with rhythm, ere the fire
Will leave their laughing eyes.

The jaded glee
Becomes a habit; hot propinquity
Of bodies thrills them,—even the gods perspire . . . .
The band achieves the noisy balderdash
Of Bedlam's choir; the nasal banjos thrums;
The clarinet pursues its screech; a moan
Escapes from the catarrhal saxophone
Terpsichore, behind the muffled drum
Turns pallid when the phallic symbols clash.

—Yale News.

In Wall Street they tell a story of a former railway president, noted for the big things he accomplished, who was ever a stickler for facts. When he asked his employees for information he expected that it would be definite.

While travelling through the cheerless deserts of Nevada one day with a number of the officials of the road of which he was president, the train passed a little station with much platform, a bleak background of sage-brush and junipers, and no habitation within sight.

"What purpose does that station serve?" asked the president of one of the railway officials with the party.

"It ships a few cattle and two or three cars of wool."

"Which is it, two or three?" asked the big man. "There is a difference of thirty-three and a third percent."

That man may be a wonder in Wall Street, but in private life he must be a terrible nuisance, and his wife ought to be able to get a divorce on the grounds of cruelty from any respectable American court.—Toronto Sunday World.

DeW.—"Say, John, what ship on the high seas represents married life?"
Button—" Battleship."

E. P. rk-ns.—"Do you like Carmen?"
Freshette.—"No; I prefer truck drivers."
